Foreword

Just as in the adult's everyday surroundings the school represents a storehouse of varied activities for the enrichment of all its students. From the pages of this book as from the pages of time this enrichment will leave the footprints of those who participated with vigor in the academic field as well as the extra-curricular activities provided for the student body.

Our high school's greatest gift to its students is the opportunity for increasing development that is typified by the scenic location of our building, "high atop a hill."

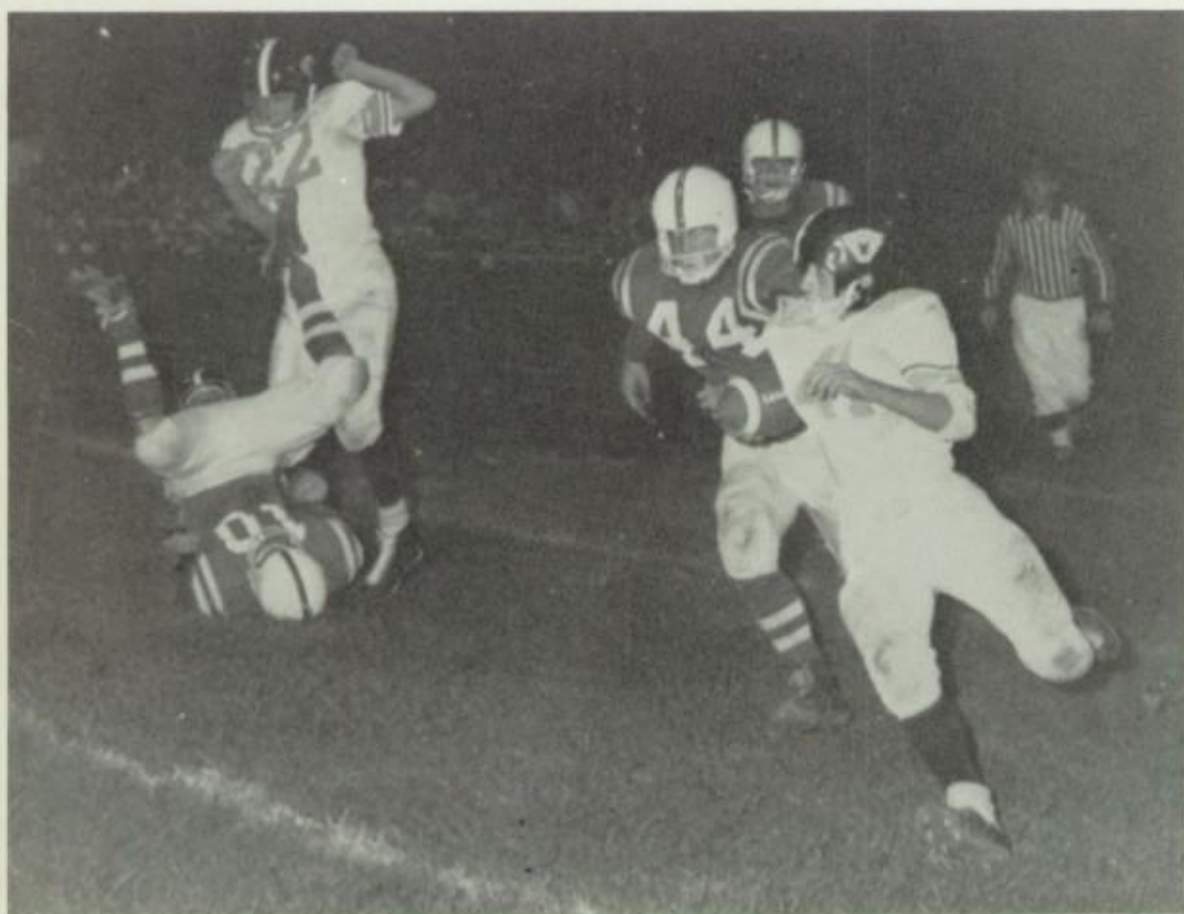

May each student who walks through the halls of Reeds Spring High and adds his personality to the group, be as a parallel to our most attractive school, "high atop a hill," and find himself "sitting on top of the world."

Gets New Kindergarten

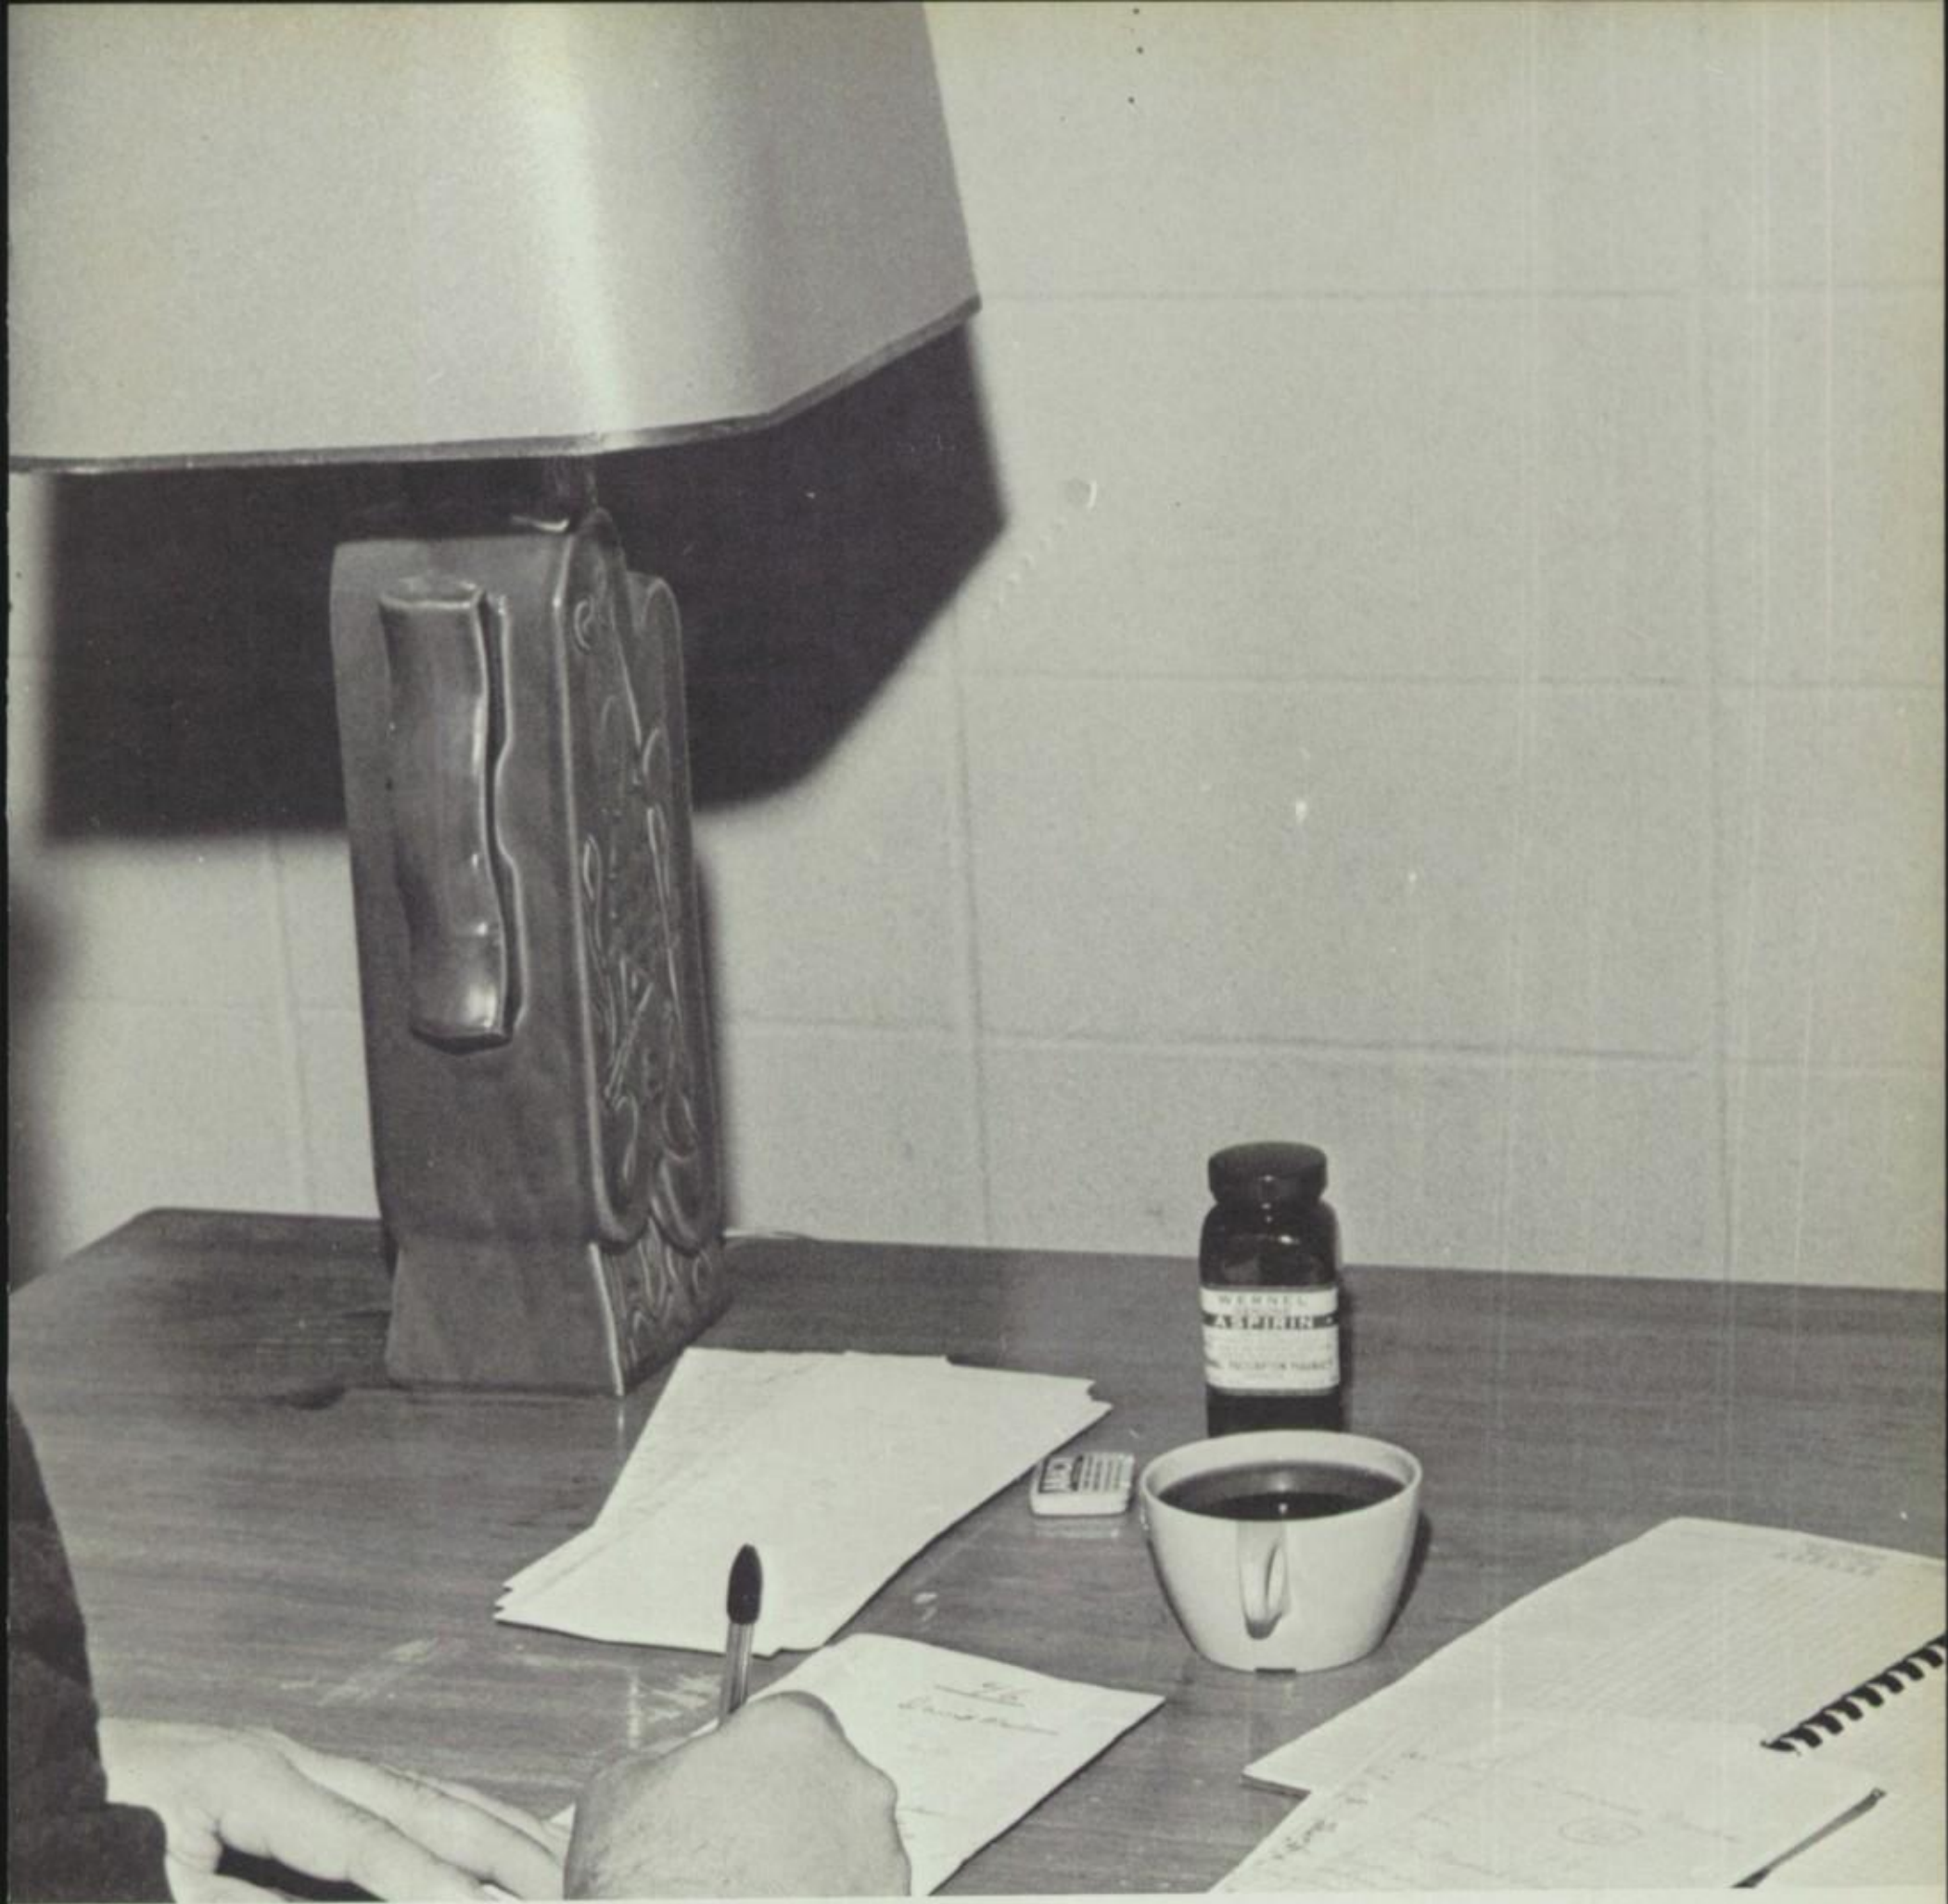

As part of President Johnson's Economic Opportunity Program, Congress passed a bill entitled Elementary and Secondary Education Act, Public Law 8910 Title One. This Federal bill made it possible for the Reeds Spring R-IV School district to establish a kindergarten. There are 44 students enrolled at the present time. Assisting Mrs. Chamberlain and Mrs. Pearce are Mrs. Reginald Day and Mrs. Betty Mills, Jr. who serve as teachers aides.

Due to the fact that the floormat of the yearbook had already been planned when the kindergarten was established, we found it necessary to place the new kindergarten in the impression's section.

Board Sets High Educational Goals

What would you think about a job which offered nothing but hard work, no pay, and very little praise? This describes the job undertaken by the members of the Board of Education. Every year these men work unceasingly to benefit the school. Their only reward is the satisfaction of seeing their efforts help to make better citizens of the youth of their community.

The students of Reeds Spring High School wish to thank these board members for their untiring efforts on our behalf. We know that we can always count on men like these.

The board members, intent upon their work, exchange views on many problems of concern to school and community.

Superintendent

Lauds Progress

I would like to say to all Reeds Spring students, graduates, and patrons, 'May you continue to bring honor to Reeds Spring Schools which is and has been honored and proud to have you.'

It is not how many years we live, but what we do with them. It is not what we receive but what we give to others.

There is much in the Reeds Spring Schools deserving of praise and pride. I am proud of the high place the school has achieved in the Reeds Spring community. I am looking forward to many more improvements.

Superintendent

Mrs. Jones serves as secretary to the Board, Mr. Parsons, and both the Elementary and High Schools. She gets some much appreciated help from Pam Owens and Janet Stone.

Mr. Huddleston uses the thermofax machine to duplicate a student transcript.

Mr. Page and Mr. Parsons work diligently on Federal Law 89-10 Title I application forms. This is the program that is providing Reeds Spring with a kindergarten and several valuable teaching materials.

Mr. Page and Mr. Huddleston depend upon Rita Tolbert, Cheryl LaMar, and Janis King to perform many clerical tasks. The first hour of the day finds Rita compiling uniform absentee lists and typing a daily menu for the bulletin board. Cheryl, who works sixth hour, types and records admittance cards for students. During the seventh hour, Janis picks up absentee slips and enters them on the permanent record.

Principals Provide

An important element in the success of a school year is the effective direction and supervision of capable administrators. Serving Reeds Spring in this capacity are Mr. Don Page, High School Principal; and Mrs. Edith Workman, Elementary Principal.

Every student's academic, physical, cultural, and social development is the interest of the Board and Staff at Reeds Spring. The three Principals are charged with many responsibilities that directly influence the school's program for pupil development. Curriculum construction, supervision of teachers, maintenance of general atmosphere conducive to learning, and individual counseling to students are responsibilities to which the principals apply their educational know-how and experience.

The students at Reeds Spring High School are offered 44 1/2 units of state approved credit. In order to graduate, a student is required to have earned a total of 18 units from the fields of Language Arts, Fine Arts, Natural Sciences, Social Studies, Mathematics, Practical Arts, and Physical Education.

Important Communicative Skills Are Developed

A good understanding of the English language is becoming increasingly important in today's highly competitive world. The ability to communicate effectively is a necessity for success. Reeds Spring High School helps students to meet this need by presenting a curriculum which includes six courses of English for junior and senior high school.

In addition to junior high English courses, students are required to take three years of high school English before graduation. These courses include grammar, composition, and literature. English IV, a presentation of English Literature, is also offered to Juniors and Seniors as an elective.

In addition to English courses, the Language Arts Department offers two years of French and two years of speech. French language, life and culture, are presented to Reeds Spring Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors in French I and French II as fine arts electives.

Preparation of materials for the junior and senior high school English classes brings Mr. Simmons, Mr. McElroy, and Mrs. McElroy together for a conference in the Library.

Social Studies Department

The purpose of the social studies department is to give students the knowledge they need to live in today's world and become useful members of society. In Mrs. McQueary's psychology and sociology classes, students learn about the behavior characteristics of individuals as well as society as a whole. Mr. Langley's citizenship class provides a more thorough understanding of the workings of government and our role as citizens.

In connection with a unit on our civil rights and responsibilities, the Citizenship class conducted a very interesting courtroom proceeding in the mock trial of a defendant accused of stealing his neighbor's chicken. Billy Atchison is the defendant; Sandy Erwin is the Prosecuting Attorney; Mike Kaufman is the Defense Attorney; Gregg Kline is the Judge; Steve Weaver is the Court Recorder; and David Terry is a defense witness.

Emphasizes Good Citizenship

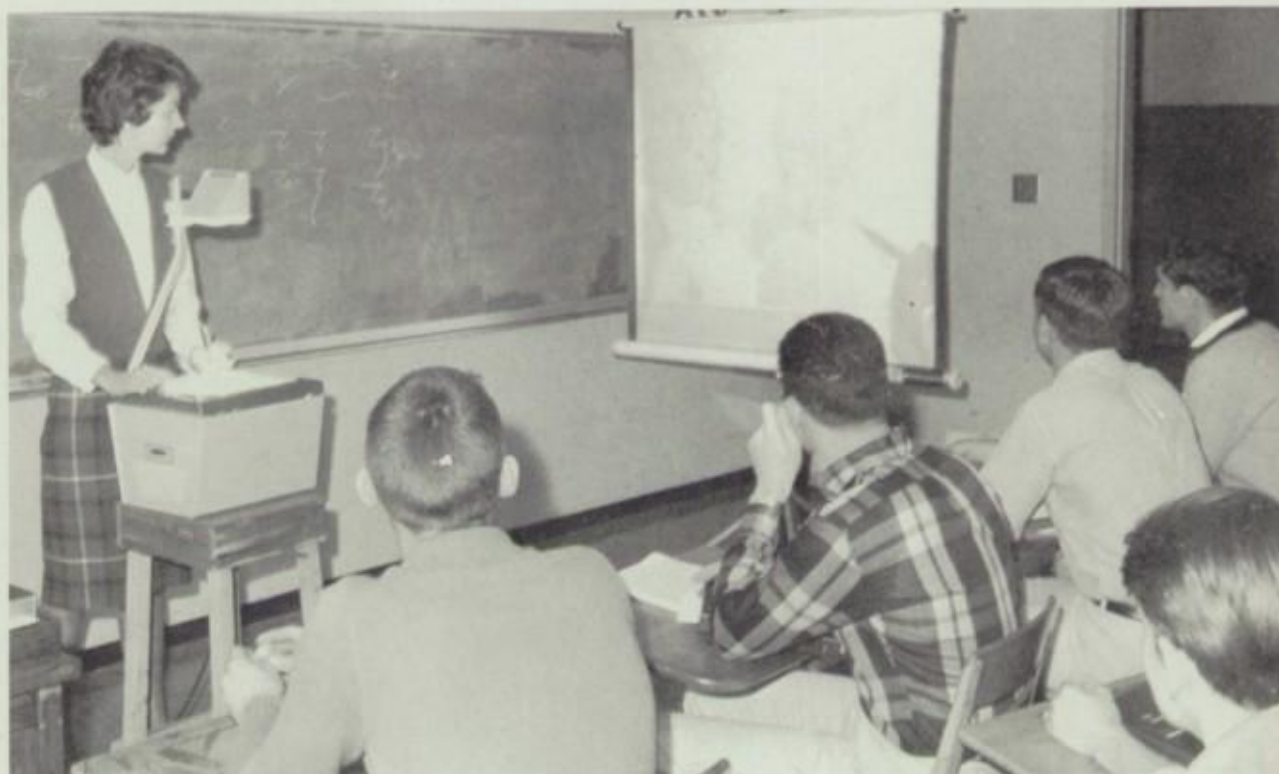

Students are required to take three years of social studies before graduation, Citizenship, World History, and American History. Mr. Langley teaches Citizenship and World History as well as Contemporary Issues. Mrs. Page teaches American History and Mrs. McQueary teaches junior high social studies, Psychology, and Sociology.

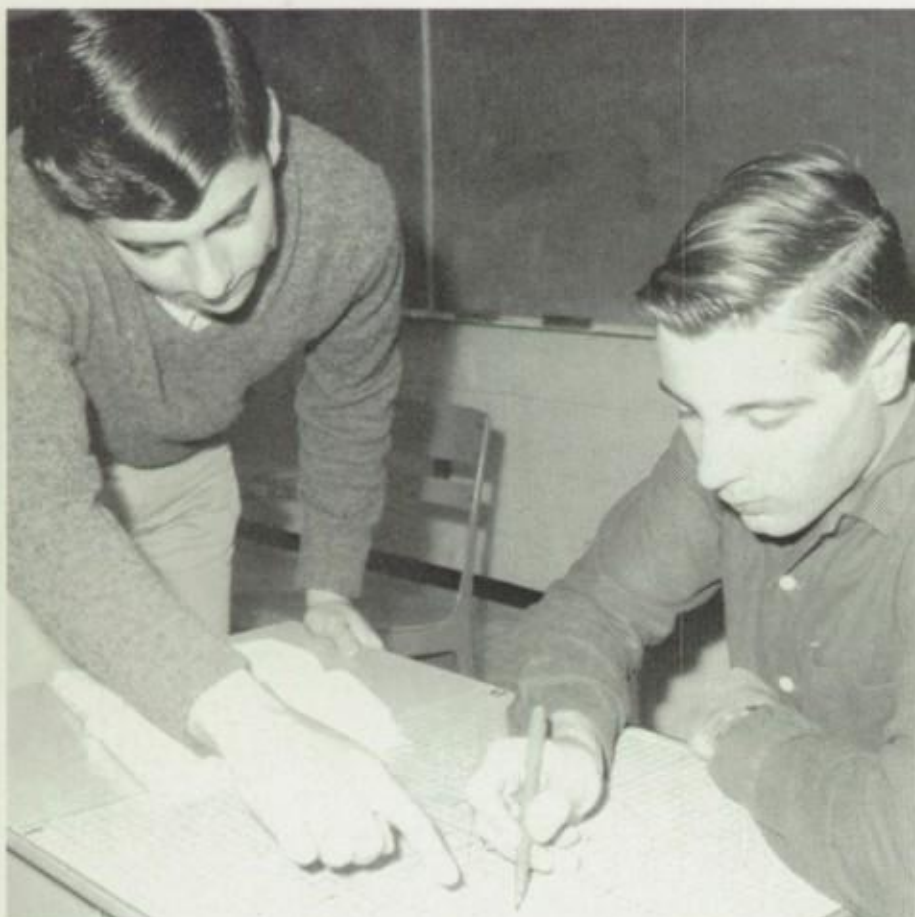

The social studies department aims to help students to understand the past as well as the present, and gives them knowledge they need to become useful members of today's increasingly complex society.

What causes weather? How fast does light travel? How did life originate on earth? How is algebra used in everyday life? Ever since man first appeared on earth, he has been looking for the answers to countless, unceasing questions. This insatiable curiosity, the desire to learn, is what puts man above the other beasts. This is the "why" of science and math.

The unending search for new knowledge and applications for that knowledge have enabled man to build the complex civilization we know today. New strides are constantly being made in space, medicine, and engineering.

Where are the scientists, the doctors, and the mathematicians of tomorrow? Today they are in classrooms all over the world, in schools like Reeds Spring, where teachers like Mr. Woods and Mr. Priester are teaching basic courses in math and science. Thanks to the world of science and math mankind will always have the hope of a brighter tomorrow.

Business Education Emphasizes Vocational Training

The Business Education Department at Reeds Spring offers an extensive range of classes. The schedule includes Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Basic Business, Typing, and Clerical Practice. Courses are designed and presented in a system to meet the increasing demand for skilled typists and "business prepared" young adults in the dynamic world of business.

Clerical Practice students type or review test questions under the able supervision of Mr. Burkett.

Music is one of the more abstract forms of fine art. The study of music broadens and enriches a student's cultural background throughout life. Under the direction of Miss Homsey, students gain knowledge and develop a keener appreciation of music.

In the field of vocal music, students may participate in girls or boys chorus, and may, if they wish, take part in the Spring Music Festival.

The 26 members of the grade school band are learning to play musical instruments. This enriches a student's life, both in realizing his duty as a member of the group and in gaining the satisfaction of performing alone.

Hopes for a larger high school band rest with these young band members and the competent training of their director, Miss Homsey.

The choral group is rehearsing to go to Verona on the 17 of February to sing at the clinic. The singers will rehearse all day then present a concert to the public that evening.

A program to develop the artistic talent and creative ability of the student is offered by the art department. In Mr. Page's class, students participate in a variety of projects, this helping each student to discover his own particular ability in the field of art, and to express himself creatively.

Reeds Spring, in conjunction with many other communities across the nation, commemorated Head Start Day. The official banner is displayed and attention called to the aims and goals of the program.

Youngsters Get Head Start

This year, the summer of 1965, marked the beginning of an important educational program known as "Head Start". This program enables the pre-school students to get acquainted with the ways of school as well as begin their education. This year 38 students enrolled for the 8-weeks period of the "Head Start" program. Shown in the picture at left are the students, along with their teachers, Mrs. Workman and Mrs. Welsh, and teacher's aids, Mrs. Blevins and Mrs. Wolven.

Mrs. Flossie Hill, Mrs. Walsie Ray, and Mrs. Lexie Mease busily prepare biscuits to accompany a hearty meal at the high school.

We seldom stop to realize just how important are the vital services performed by the members of the staff. For instance, consider a few interesting statistics.

Four hundred and six students are fed every day by the grade school and high school cooks. This means that they serve forty-three thousand, thirty-six plates and prepare sixty-two thousand, six hundred and ninety-eight pounds of food a year.

The bus drivers drive three hundred and eighty-two miles a day getting students safely to and from school. In one year they drive far enough to travel around the earth almost three times.

Thirty thousand, six hundred and fourteen square feet of floor space have to be swept every day. In a school year Ben and Kirby take care of more than one hundred and twenty-five acres of floor space.

Something to think about, isn't it.

Almost one-hundred per cent of Reeds Spring's students are transported to and from school by bus drivers, Dewey Hembree, Dale Patrick, Charlie Carr, Jay Simpson, Kieth Patrick, Otto Lewallen, and Elmo Eads. Not shown in the picture are: Vernon Mease, Ora Tolbert, Scottie Chamberlain, Oliver Foster and Roy Warren.

This year, Reeds Spring students ratified an amended constitution and elected a student body president and a student council. The council consists of two representatives from each of the four high school classes. There is also one honorary member from each of the junior high grades. Student body president Sandy Erwin presides over the meetings. Mr. Robert Simmons serves as faculty advisor.

The council not only helped in bringing school dances to Reeds Spring, but also sponsored programs for Thanksgiving and Christmas, and entered a float in the Christmas parade.

Staff Keeps Up to Date with

A considerable amount of work, both during and after school hours, goes into the completion of the school newspaper and yearbook. Brenda Brotherton, Sandy Erwin, Bill Fullerton, Calvin Miller, and other staff members spent several weekend hours working on the yearbook at Mrs. Page's home. Don Cloud, Mary Ann Clifton, and Patsy Back performed part of the vital task of marking, stamping, and identifying pictures to be included in the annual. Good typists are a must and Nina Mead, Barbara Horn, Belinda Butler, and Linda Horn prove their worth by typing newspaper stencils and annual mats. Sheryl Pace, Katy Pipes, and Maxine Jones made sure that adequate stocks of various supplies were maintained at all times so that work in progress would not be delayed.

The words and pictures presented here illustrate only a few of the tasks that are involved in bringing the Hi-Lights and the Wolfpack to the public.

The preparation of the high school annual and newspaper requires the attention of students specially assigned to handle each individual area of production.

As heads of the newspaper staff, Editor Kevin Simmons and Assistant Editor Vicki Tolbert must see that all articles, editorials, cartoons, and photographs are processed and made ready for publication.

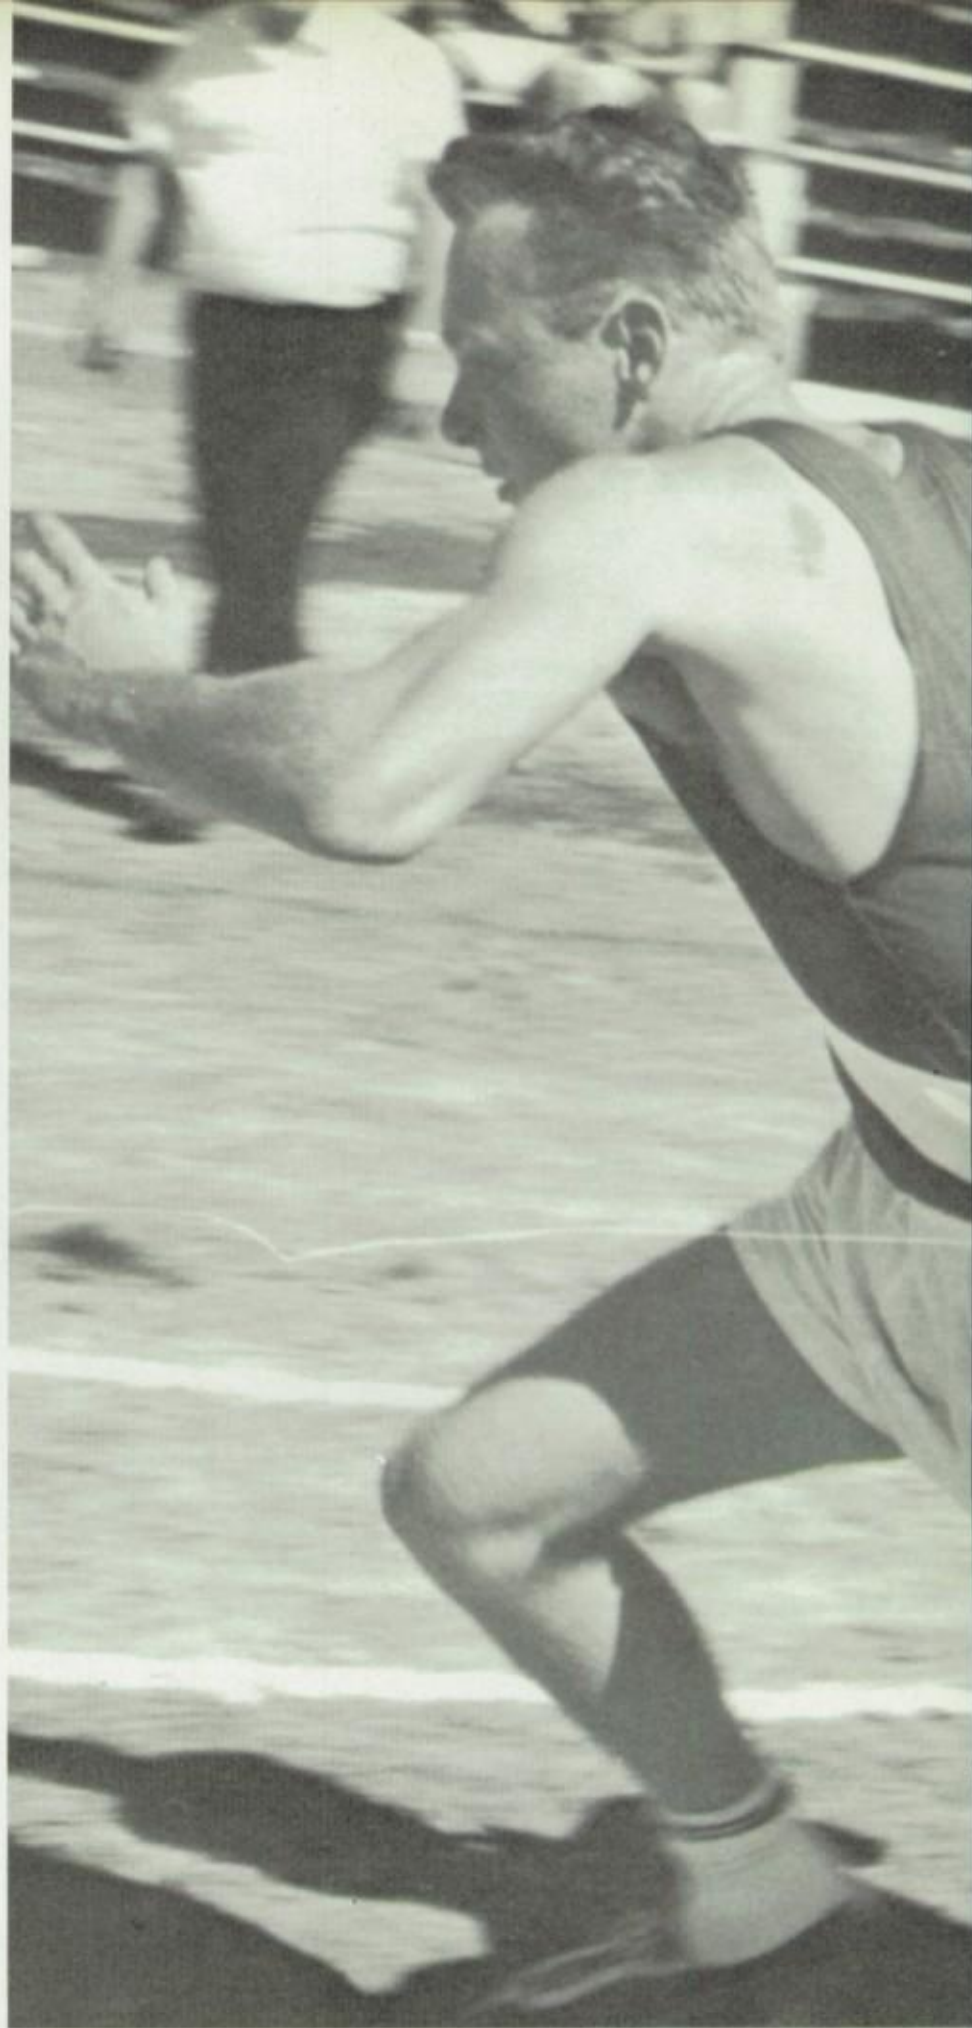

It is the job of Wolfpack Business Manager Brenda Brotherton to keep a record of annual and advertisement sales and supervise the completion of the advertising section. Joe Loftin, as Copy Editor, must write copy for the yearbook and proofread and correct material written by others. Photography Editor, Don Frederick and Feature Editor, Paula Compton work in conjunction with the other editors, getting much-needed photographs and constructing layouts.

Perhaps the hardest job is that of Layout Editor. Bill Fullerton is in charge of designing layouts and must see to it that every page attractively designed is ready to be sent off by the deadline.

As advisor to both publications, Mrs. Page is responsible for staff organization, production assignments, and evaluation of the finished product.

Although Reeds Spring again had a poor won-lost record, (0-7) the football spirit still runs high. Without trying to make excuses, much of the Wolves' poor record can be attributed to some boys moving out of the area, and to injuries which kept several key players out of action.

On October 1, 1965, Senior Linda Horn was crowned Homecoming Queen by Wolves' captain Garth Mease. The Queen's attendants were Yvonne Kelly, Junior; Janice Erwin, Sophomore; and Nancy Robbins, Freshman.

Homecoming Successful!

On January 28, Cindy Rauch, the sophomore candidate, was crowned Basketball Homecoming Queen. Her attendants were Linda Busen, freshman candidate, Mary Mefford, junior candidate, Janis King, Student Council candidate, and Barbara Horn, senior candidate. The Wolves celebrated homecoming by beating Verona 70-62.

Cindy was crowned Queen by Captain Melvin Holt and presented with the royal roses by Co-Captain, Calvin Miller.

Calvin Miller scores two points for the Wolves, shooting over the outstretched arm of a Hollister defender.

Six-foot two-inch center Don Fredrick launches a shot while surrounded by defensive players in the Reeds Spring-Hollister game. Reeds Spring won this first game of the season with a 59-47 score.

Gary Johnson takes a jump shot from the free-throw line as Garry Jones (no. 53) and Don Fredrick (no. 55) head for the boards.

Junior Wolves Enjoy Two

In 1965, Reeds Spring began a program of Junior High Football, coached by Mr. Burkett. The enthusiasm for this program was tremendous with more than thirty boys participating. The Junior Wolves gave Reeds Spring fans a treat by winning their very first game over the Greenwood Bluejays, 18-14. Although they lost their other two games, their performances indicate that future Reeds Spring varsity squads will benefit from the additional experience.

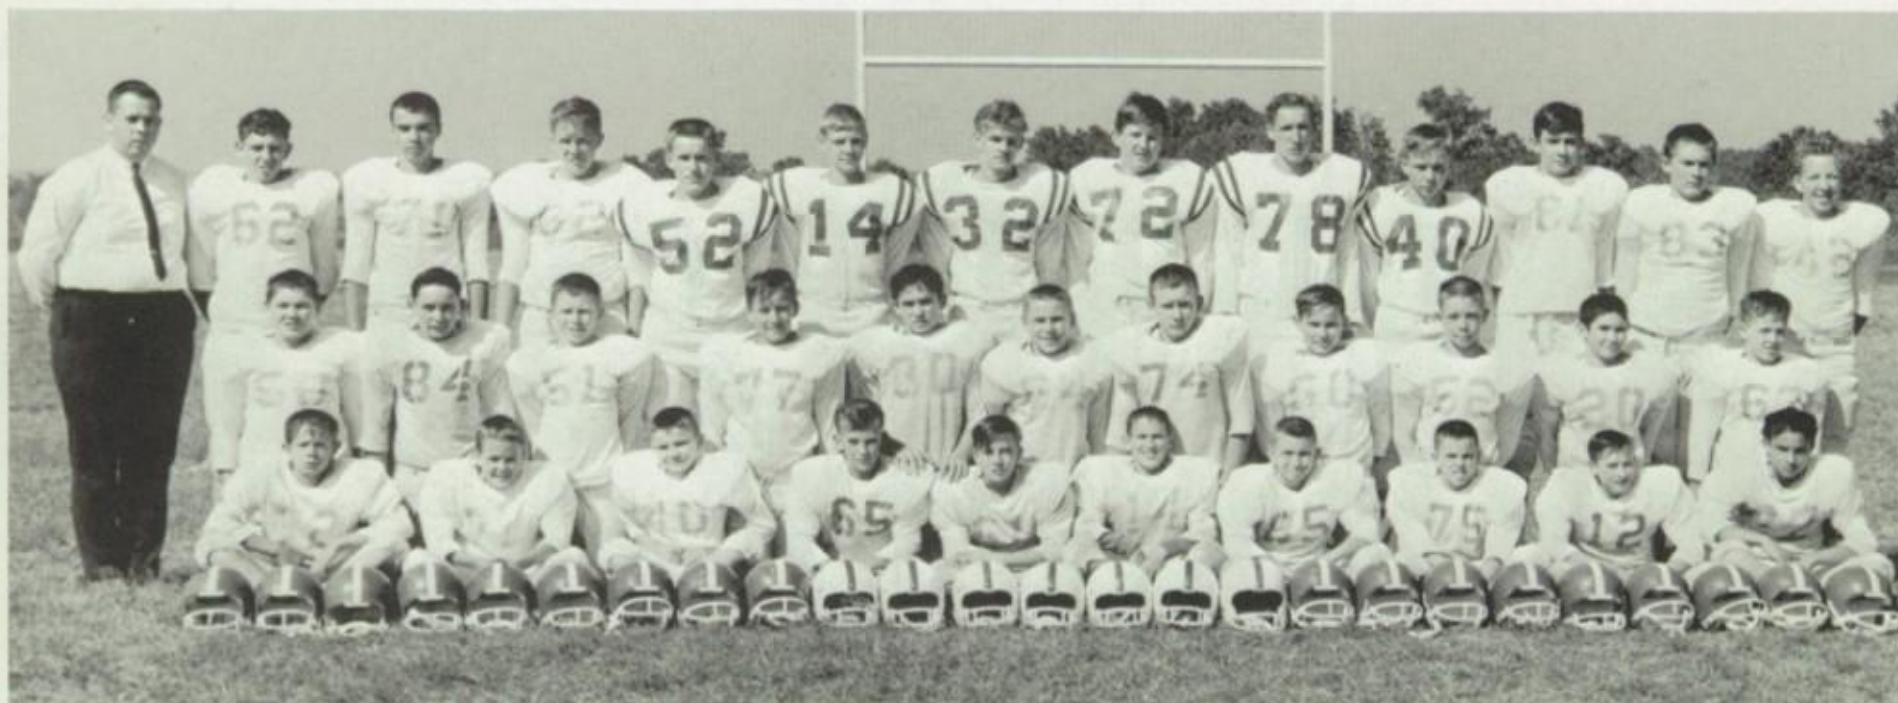

During these practice sessions the Jr. Wolves gained skill and confidence. Here you see the young Wolves learning new techniques & trying them out at a practice session.

In this particular play, Marty Gentry is carrying the ball as Roy Eisenhower makes the tackle. Eddie Fink is in close pursuit.

Center of small fry attention at Silver Dollar City is lean, white-moustached "U.S. Marshal" Ralph Hooker, whose sixgun-handling prowess makes him a thrillingly believable character of the 1880 Ozarks. Hooker is actually a commissioned law officer of Stone County, Missouri where Marvel Cave is located.

For the Good of Your Children

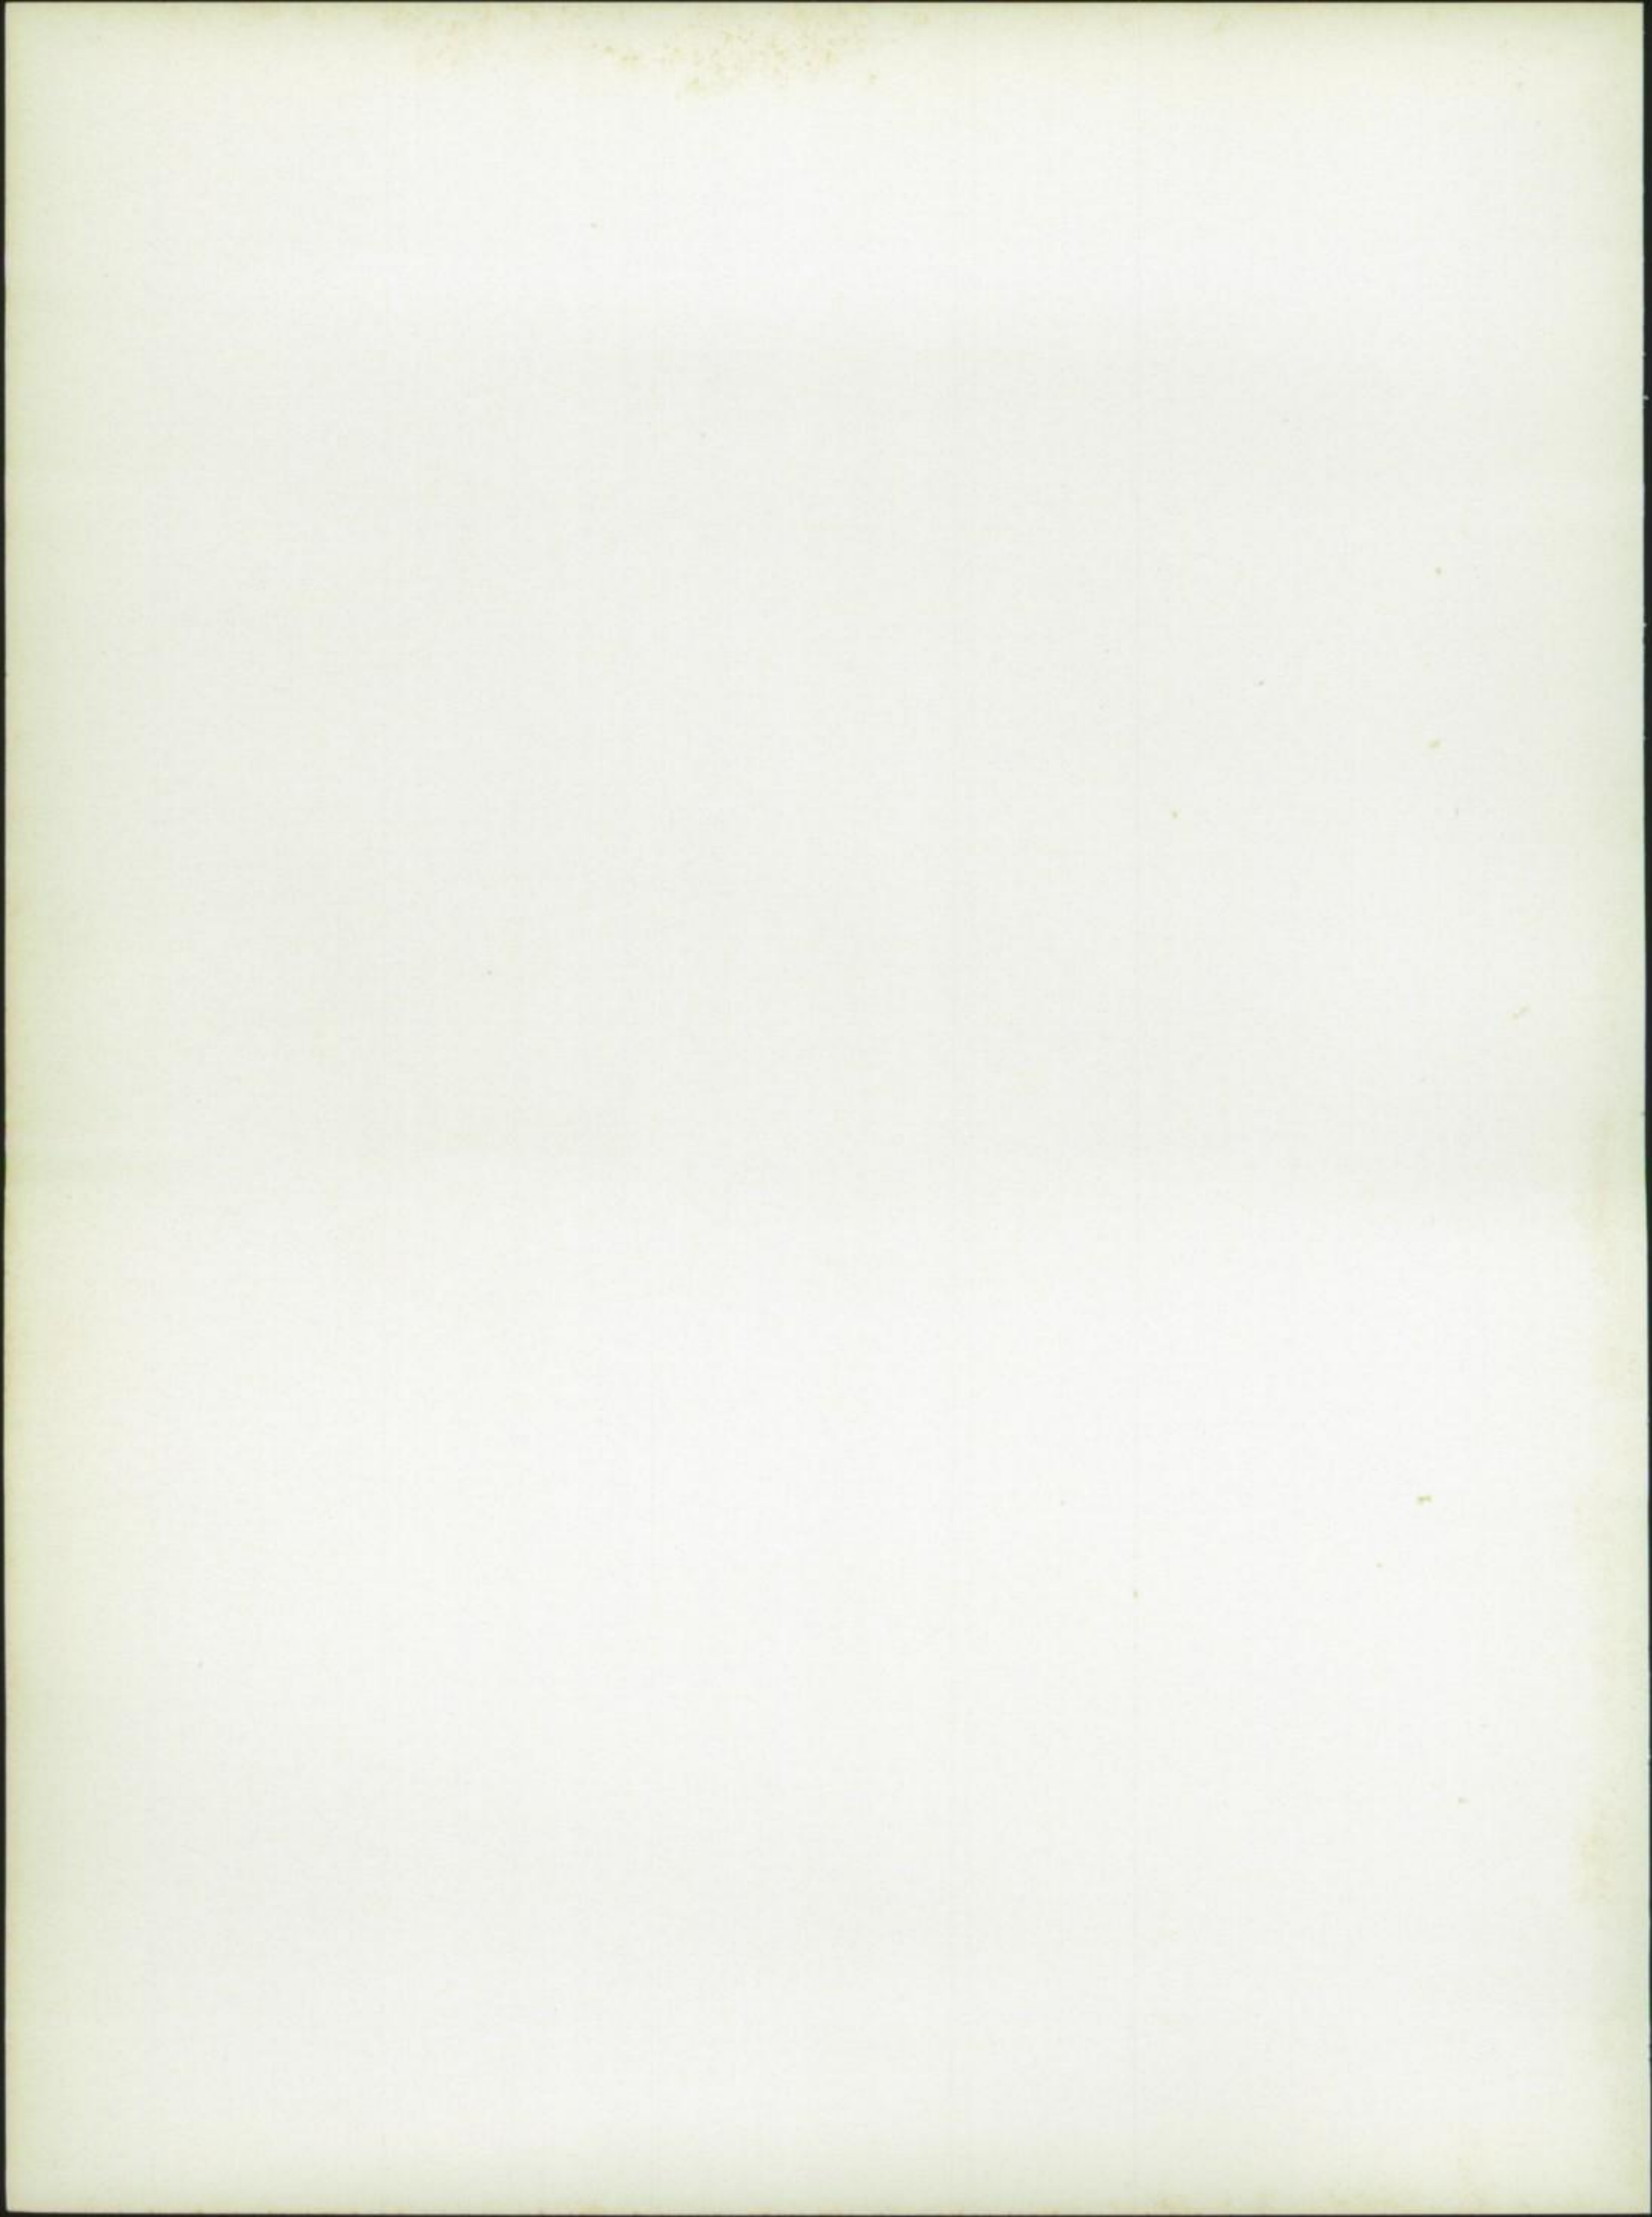

For the Good of Your School

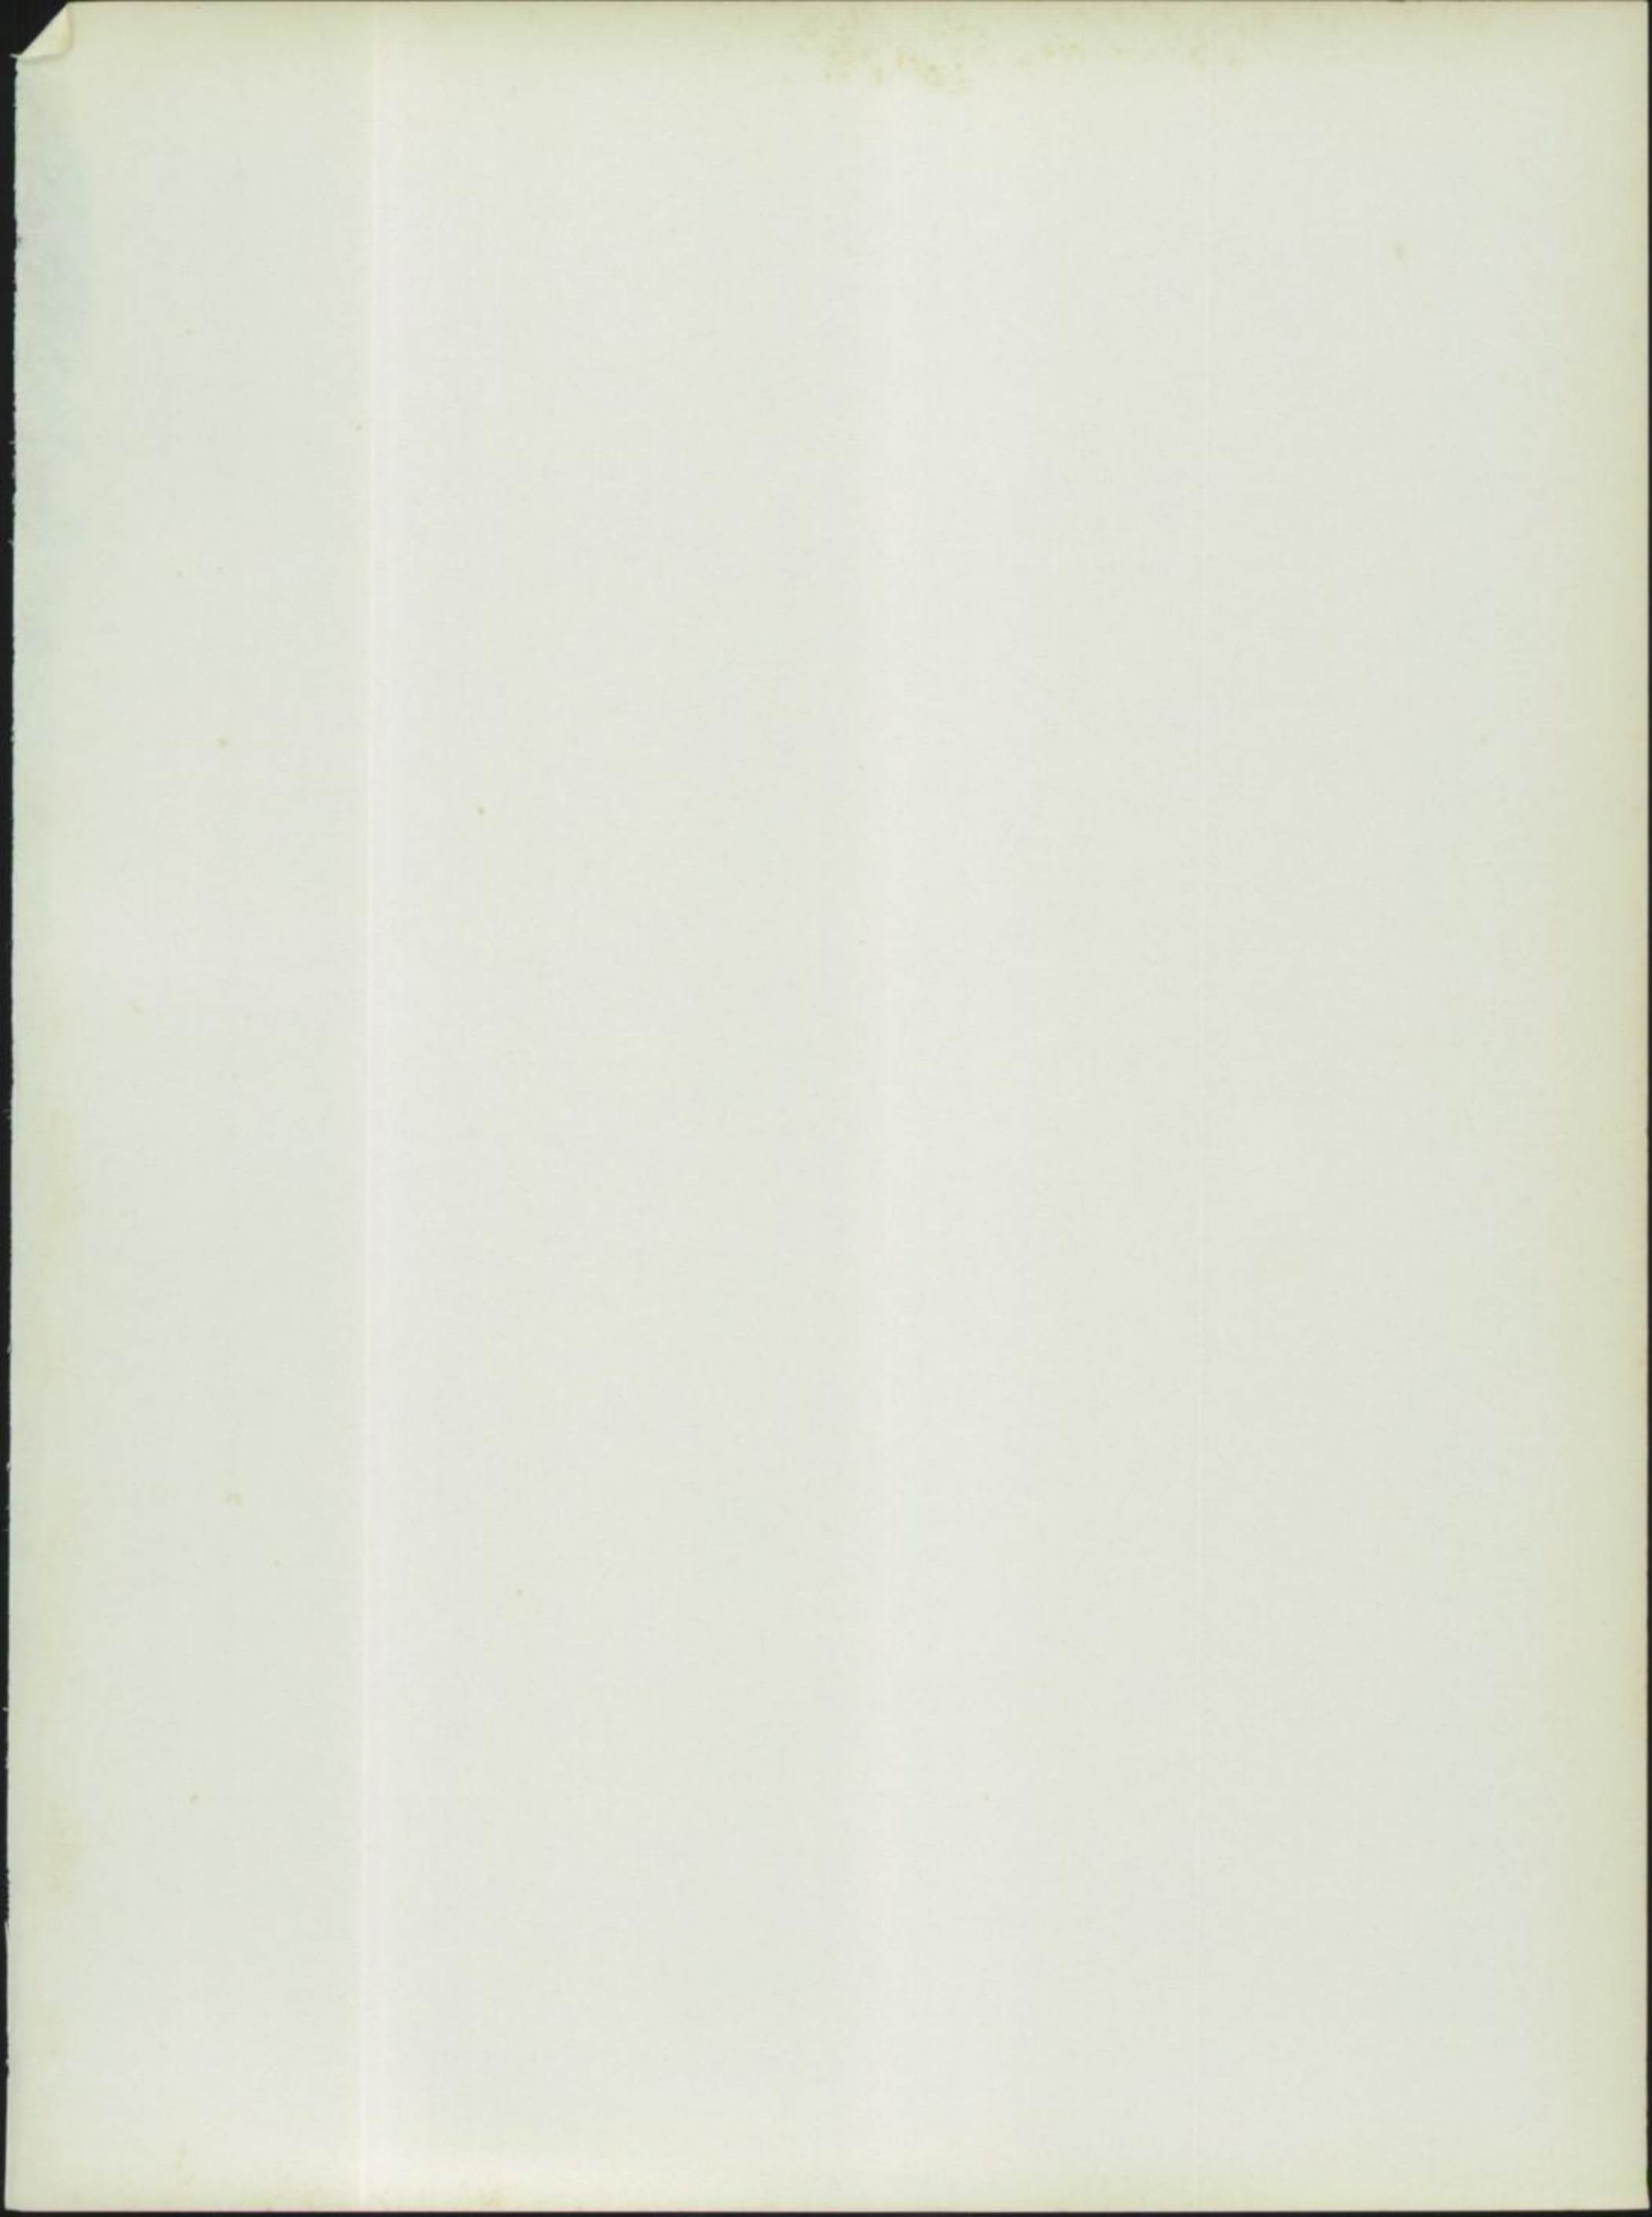

Through the inanimate medium of ink and paper, we have attempted to portray, in this, our 1966 Wolf Pack, what to us was so warm and full of life, the events and activities of our career at Reeds Spring High School. It is our wish that when you look through this book in years to come, the memories it recalls will be welcome and happy ones. If this is the case, we have done our job well, and that is reward enough.

The staff wishes to acknowledge the invaluable assistance of Photographers Leon Fredrick, who supplied the sports action shots, Don Droke, and Jim Shay; our professional photographers, C. H. Lenhart and Dave Baldwin; our publisher, Inter-Collegiate Press; and especially our advertisers who helped to bear the financial burden.
